

● Selling Old Guard Uniforms/Flags – Charles Williams has agreed to sell some of the old uniforms and flags. There is a website that will sell items for us; we receive 60% of the profit. There is a Facebook site where we do 100% of the work but receive 100% of the profits. Amy Schneidau and Regina Calhoun have agreed to look into this. It will be decided later where the profits will be allocated. (FC Band Boosters pays for guard uniforms.)

● Medical Forms – Due by August 31, 2017.

● Mum sales – Sean Tabor was contacted by the local company with whom we have done a mum fundraiser in years past. With a great deal of work on our part and the band only making $1 per mum sold, it was decided we would not participate this year.

● Invitational T-Shirts – Discussed selling Invitational t-shirts unique to our event. Three hundred (300) white shirts from 323ink with two colors of ink on front and one color of ink on the back would cost $4.50 per shirt. Add $1 each for a shirt color other than white. Visiting bands would be featured on the back. Due to the concerns of having leftover shirts and the late date, it was decided to look into Invitational shirts next year.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT:

Alec Branstetter, the band's new student teacher, says he is happy to be here. He is enjoying working with the marching band as well HHMS students.

Students will begin learning the third movement drill at camp on Saturday, August 19. They have already been rehearsing the music for the third movement.

Band uniform update – Prototype uniforms from two competing companies are in the process. One design features an Under Armour shirt to be worn under the uniform. It can be no sleeve, short sleeve or long-sleeve. The shirt may be printed in any color or style. The idea would be to coordinate the Under Armour color to the show. Both prototypes feature a leg cape, which attaches to the jacket.

Director changes in Class A, in addition to Avon and Carmel not competing at state level, will leave Class A wide open and competitive.

Group picture will be taken at camp on August 19.
